Episcopal Christmas Exercises Very Enjoyable—Pastor Given Purse.

The Christmas tree and exercises in connection with St. John the Baptist Episcopal church, Websterville, were held on Saturday evening. The vestry was tastefully decorated by the women of the church and everything had the appearance of Christmas. The tree, which was a beautiful one, was heavily laden with gifts for young and old. The program was in charge of Mrs. Ed. Anderson and showed much care and painstaking. All the children acquitted themselves very creditably. Miss Coburn, organist of the Church of the Good Shepherd, with four of the choir boys, sang several Christmas carols, which were much appreciated. At the close of the program, D. Greenleaf gave a practical talk on the importance of punctual attendance at Sunday school, which was well worthy of note. He then presented the pastor a purse of $45 in the name and on behalf of the congregation and friends of St. John the Baptist church. Mr. Beattie received the gift with grateful appreciation and stated that the work on the hill had always been a great pleasure and satisfaction to him because of the unanimity which existed, and the whole-hearted way in which they took hold of the Master's work.

EAST BARRE.

Miss Mayme Hagan, who is teaching in Fayston, spent Christmas at home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Nye and family of Washington spent Christmas in town.

Daniel Hagan, station agent at Brandon, spent Christmas at the home of his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Partridge of Randolph spent Christmas at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Wellington.

Miss Flossie Cutler and Miss Margaret Tucker have gone to New Hampshire for a visit with their grandmother, Mrs. M. S. Hutchinson.

The exercises of the Sunday school of the Congregational church were largely attended and well enjoyed. A beautiful tree laden with gifts delighted both young and old.

Mr. and Mrs. P. McCarty of Montpelier, accompanied by the Misses Florence, Mary, Joanna and Agnes McCarty, spent Christmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hagan.

Winona Council, No. 8, D. of P., held its regular meeting last evening and initiated one candidate; also elected its officers for the ensuing year. There will be a joint raising of chiefs Thursday evening, January 4.

Magic of the Clean Page on New Year's Day.

In the January Woman's Home Companion Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle in New York city, writes a wonderful New Year's sermon, entitled "Turning the Leaf." In the course of this sermon, he shows as follows why it is that we all are inspired with hope for the future on New Year's day.

"It is because we are touched by the magic of the clean page that we begin each year with the cheerful salutation, 'I wish you a Happy New Year!' We dare say it to everybody. No matter what the old year was, we still expect bright things from the new one. Even to those whom the old year has battered and mangled, we are bold to give jubilant greetings. This is because of the native hopefulness of the soul. We instinctively believe in the goodness of the Eternal, and because God is King of all souls and lovely things are possible. No one can be a fatalist on New Year's. On the first day of the year we are certain of our freedom. We can get out of our rut. We can escape from our prison. The sight of the clean page cleanses the eyes."

An informal reunion of the Marston family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carroll of Bolster place Christmas evening when thirty-four members of the family came together. Four generations were present, the oldest being Mrs. Ann Marston, who is past 88 years old. On account of her extreme age and impaired health, the observance was of a quiet nature.

Fred Cleveland, a farmer living on the road to Plainfield, had his troubles while driving along Granite street yesterday afternoon when the king bolt to his wagon broke as the team went over the Central-Vermont crossing. Cleveland was pitched headfirst from the wagon and the horse, still hitched to the front wheels of the vehicle, set off down the street at a rapid pace. He was later recaptured on River street and taken to Page Bros' stable to await his owner's return. Chief of Police Sinclair and Officer George Carle, who happened to be in that vicinity at the time, assisted Cleveland to his feet and carried him to the office of Dr. William McFarland. The physician found that the man had been severely cut between the eyes, although no other injuries were sustained. The deep gash inflicted by the fall, was dressed and last night Cleveland was able to go after his team and return home.
